MONEY MARKET.

We have never before seen the stock market in a more matinhotoxy position. It has been in a constant state . Every day has produced its own varie les, but we mark as a distinguishing characteristic a for has been given to most of the coal stocks; they have ed to be the subjects o speculation. It is literally be said in regard to the stock of several of the rai ne to be an extraordinary want of energy, while, in Madoon River, the administration is full of fire, but os cannot last long especially injurious as it to the Hudson, whose debt absorbs all that od from the current income But when we survey There is no hope of improvement— rest, oreditor interest, all are involved in a a chaos of apprehension, and there are expitalists the look forward to the time when the whole property rove a hard bargain. At present, speculation in this tion that the large some which has been loaned may mued If Commodore Vanderbilt should become hypethecation wou'd sees have to be distributed. He go for material aid; but, ion-much as the little m to quick at a turn, and sageolous withal, to will hold on no longer than it may suit do own convenience. The folly of an attempt to keep up an evergrown concern, rotten to the very core, dity seldem exhibited even in Wall street. The groundwork is entirely unsound, presenting no substra-tum on which a reasonable hope can rest for relief. If the magnitations now pending in Europe should fall, and the credits be recalled on which the floatcon conse to float. In our judgment the fate of Erie is ubt, and in this opinion we but record the practical

The June receipts of the Vermont Central Railro carnings for the past six months has been $13 000 per month. The receipts for the year 1852 fell short of paying expenses, interest, rent and repairs, by about $35,000 only, or $3,000 per month, so that the ratio of gain this year, as above, even if is should not increase in the com-ing best six months, will leave a moderate net income on the present price of the stock, spart from the important benefits to be derived from "consolidation" and future im-provement. The receipts from July last year to July this year, from passengers, freights, mails, rout, &c., will be not very far from $700 000, while the expenses have been materially diminished in the same time.

NEW YORK AND ERIE RAILROAD.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE NEW YORE HERALE:—Your Elmira correspondent has touched the present managers of the Erie Railroad on the "raw." It is, indeed, surjeising that the most stupendous railroad on this continuent should be left to the tender mercies of bears and wolves, extending as it does from the great centre of North America to the greatest inland seas upon earth, whose shores are dotted with cities, towns, and villages, numbering millions of people, who justly pride themselves on their intelligence and industry. Nor is this all: A field of agricultural produce, the richest and the largest in the world, seeks an outlet to the East each returning antumn. Why, then, is it, that the Erie road, holding a key to this vast section of wealth, does not secure its full share of the business? The answer is clear. While the central lines have been figuring and laying pipe from the Missiaspip river to Boston, with a hot and cold weather branch to this city, guided by the asgacious little Napoleen of Michigan, and the modern chalatin of Albany, the New York and Erie managers have been careful never to loose sight of Trinity church spire or the Exchange. The central lines are represented in all their departments by men of enterprise and genius. The press, too, is not silent, it is made to speak out to the people the advantages of their lines, from St. John to El Dorado. Not se with the Erie. It is true they have sentres at a few points; but, like half paid watchmen, they sid downly looking on at the thirth of their rivals. It is also true that they patronize the press. But if you wish any information in the Mississippi, Othor or Illinois valleys, it must be obtained either of their opponent's agents, which is not apt to be the most favorable or reliable, or perchance you may find their lorg, hier present of their poponent's agents, which is not apt to be the most f
